

Ahead of the G20 Leaders' Summit in Hamburg this weekend, LSE IGA is pleased to announce that its Director, Professor Erik Berglof, has been invited to serve on the Secretariat of the newly formed G20 "Group of Eminent Persons"- of which Professor Nicholas Stern, Chair of the Grantham Research Institute, is a member.

The Group's mission is to take forward the G20's work on the global financial architecture with special attention to financial stability and capital flows and the structure of multilateral development institutions (including the IMF), and to prepare realistic proposals for materially enhancing the global architecture and the leadership of the G20.

LSE IGA is proud to support the G20's desire to engage directly with excellent academia both in advanced and major emerging economies, in line with IGA's and its new Global Policy Lab (G-POL) 's vision to enhance the research capacity and global policy voice of emerging economies. See here for video.